DETAILED ACTION.

Claim Interpretation

1. In view of the new claim language, "the whole amount of Zr" (claim 1, line 16) the claims are now interpreted to mean that all of the Zr is in the R-T-B alloy and none of the Zr is in the R-T alloy.

Examiner's Comment Regarding the Rejections Based on Serial 10/675,797

2. The previous Office action contained paragraphs regarding SN 10/675,797 (See Office action mailed August 11, 2006, pages 6 to 8). In response applicants submitted the following statement:

U.S. application serial no. 10/676,797 and U.S.
application serial no. 10/799,243 were, at the time the invention of application serial no. 10/799,243 was made, owned by or subject to an obligation of assignment to TDK Corporation.

The above statement by applicants is directed to copending application 10/676,797 and not 10/675,979. However, this error is understandable in that in the paragraph bridging pages 6 and 7 of the last Office action, the Examiner incorrectly referred to 10/676,797 and in the paragraph bridging pages 7 and 8 of the last Office action correctly referred to 10/675,797. In view of the fact that the Examiner's typographical error caused some confusion that lead to applicants' error, the paragraphs based on 10/675,797 are repeated in this Office action, but the action is not a Final Rejection. A new statement by applicants regarding common ownership directed to 10/675,979 can overcome the paragraphs regarding copending application 10/675,797.

Art Unit: 1742

Rejections based on Serial No. 10/675,797

3. Claims 1 to 3 and 6 are directed to an invention not patentably distinct from claims 1 to 6 of commonly assigned 10/675,797. Specifically, these two sets of claims are, with the exception of the chill roll speed directed to the same invention. '797 teaches that the main phase alloy is made by strip casting (specification of 797, page 15). The determination of the appropriate chill roll speed to use to strip cast the mother alloy for the purpose of Yamamoto's invention is considered to be within skill of one ordinary skill in the art.

The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office normally will not institute an interference between applications or a patent and an application of common ownership (see MPEP Chapter 2300). Commonly assigned 10/675,797, discussed above, would form the basis for a rejection of the noted claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) if the commonly assigned case qualifies as prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) and the conflicting inventions were not commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made. In order for the examiner to resolve this issue, the assignee can, under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and 37 CFR 1.78(c), either show that the conflicting inventions were commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made, or name the prior inventor of the conflicting subject matter.

Art Unit: 1742

A showing that the inventions were commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made will preclude a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) based upon the commonly assigned case as a reference under 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g), or 35 U.S.C. 102(e) for applications pending on or after December 10, 2004.

4. Claims 1 to 3 and 6 provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over copending Application No. 10/675,797 which has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the copending application, it would constitute prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) if published or patented. This provisional rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) is based upon a presumption of future publication or patenting of the conflicting application. See the obvious double patenting rejection set forth above.

This provisional rejection might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the copending application was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by a showing of a date of invention for the instant application prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the copending application under 37 CFR 1.131. This rejection might also be overcome by showing that the copending application is disqualified under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) as prior art in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).
